

Membership has Benefits!

As a CAWG member:

- Your dues support lobbying on your behalf in Washington, D.C., and at the state capital in Denver.
- You may receive the weekly Dan Maltby wheat marketing wire with marketing advice from a grain buyer with over 32 years of expertise, tailored specifically for Colorado wheat farmers like you; and Brian Bledsoe's twice-monthly Weather Wire with accurate and meaningful weather information
- You are an automatic member of the National Association of Wheat Growers.
- You are invited to the Annual Colorado Wheat Producers Meeting/Ag Classic.
- You will receive a yearly subscription to The Colorado Wheat Grower, published six times a year.
- You will receive a discount on registration for the National Commodity Classic.
- You are eligible to purchase health insurance and other insurance through our Association Insurance Benefit Program.

2014 Goals

- CAWG and NAWG will work to ensure fair implementation of the 2014 Farm Bill.
- CAWG will fight to keep our agricultural sales tax exemptions in Colorado.
- CAWG will lobby to bring increased funding for wheat research to Colorado.
- CAWG and NAWG will protect the best interests of wheat growers in transportation matters at the state and national level.
- CAWG will fight for the continuation of the CRP Program.

We are working hard to protect and defend your right to do business.

CAWG and NAWG: Bringing Your Voice to the U.S. and State Capitols

The Colorado Association of Wheat Growers (CAWG) and the National Association of Wheat Growers (NAWG) are YOUR VOICE with legislators in Washington, D.C., and Denver, Colorado. No one else is bringing the interests of the wheat farmer to their attention.

Do you support that voice? While you likely pay a wheat assessment, it does not automatically make you a member of CAWG. By law, assessment dollars may not be used on legislative activities. Given the current issues, we need your support!

Your $100 per year membership keeps the voice of wheat strong in the nation's capital in Washington D.C. and in the state capital in Denver.

Your Voice at Work for You!

CAWG and NAWG lobby on your behalf:

- The 2014 Farm Bill finally passed Congress with improved crop insurance provisions that keep a strong safety net in place for wheat farmers. CAWG and NAWG continually worked with our national legislators the last few years on getting this bill passed, and in particular, keeping adjusted gross income limits out of the final bill.
- Maintaining ag sales tax exemptions in Colorado.
- Continuation of the CRP program.
- Rail competition.
- Funding for continued wheat research.
- Protecting and defending your right to do business.
